

Tughans in association with William Fry invites you to a Seminar
'Banking on NAMA – the future of the Irish property market north and south'

at The Hilton Hotel, Belfast on Wednesday 30 September 2009.

The draft legislation regarding NAMA (The National Asset Management Agency) was published by the Irish government at the end of July. In the wake of its publication, this seminar will address in detail the various opportunities and potential obstacles contained within the draft legislation. The discussion will be led by our colleagues from William Fry, one of Dublin's leading law firms, and an economist from Davy Stockbrokers.

Speakers:

- Rossa White (Chief Economist, Davy Stockbrokers, Dublin)
- Paul Murray (Partner, Banking & Financial Services, William Fry)
- Andrew Muckian (Partner and Head of Commercial Property, William Fry)

Timings:

|         |                              |
|---------|------------------------------|
| 12:00pm | Registration and light lunch |
| 12:15pm | Presentations begin          |
| 2:00pm  | Close                        |

Following the Seminar attendees are also invited to participate in a Cross Border Tax Workshop which will look at the issues surrounding personal and corporate migration, cross border estate planning and cross border pensions opportunities.

The workshop will be of interest to individuals and company directors/shareholders with business or personal interests on both sides of the border and also those who are considering expansion plans in the future.

Timings:
